Re: "The Plot"

Dec. 6, 1968 - Andrew Sciambara

Bill Turner sent the plot story down through Rose. Turner and Rose put Jim Garrison on to the Hpeburn "The Plot" book. Boxley was in town when we heard about the book. He said that this is the way world wide intelligence agencies work. An alleged intelligence agent contacted Jim. The person said that he was going to give Jim some explosive information. He said that he couldn't tell Jim Garrison what it was. He said that when he received it, he could knot wom it came from. As a follow up, the copy showed up. (Weisberg states it came in an ordinary envelope and was not registered.) Boxley talked it up. He first said that this came from the NKVD. This was the NKVD's way of getting even with the CIA. Then Jaffe was sent to Geneva, Switzerland to meet with Hepburn. They then went to Paris. Hepburn said that he was from French Intelligence. Mark Lane found out that the French guy was a phony.
